St Dunstan's Catholic Primary School

4. What can we do to improve next year?

It was perfect! It would be wonderful if the school could share some of the worksheets, perhaps once a week, to help parents stay informed about what their children are learning. Or may be the phonics that they learnt during the week.

Nil

Can add games

Do the same as this year.

Good session perhaps there could be a dedicated space set out with some toys for parent that bring toddlers (appreciate that not all parents can arrange additional care to attend), this was provided today but once after a while and the teacher leading the session did her very best to deliver the session.

Keep the good work going

Nothing.

Wished there was a bit more time together.

School response:

Thank you to all the parents that were able to attend the Phonics workshop. We are pleased to hear that you found the activities and worksheets helpful and that the phonics sessions have provided an insight into your child's learning.

We understand how important it is for parents to be involved in their child's education, and we will certainly consider your idea of sharing weekly updates on phonics topics. We aim to strengthen the connection between school and home, so we will explore how we can integrate this into our communication.
